A Job In the Senate Chamber

By Frank H. Sweet

Copyright, 1905, by Frank H. Sweet

She went up the middle steps and turned around the corner to the right. A long line was extending back from the door, expectant, impatient, though the visitors' gallery would not be open to the public until 12. She drew from her belt the one remaining link of former opulence. It still lacked ten minutes, and she slipped the watch back with a scarcely breathed sigh. Why had she come here at all, she thought accusingly? She would be better visiting the stores in search of a position as clerk; there were surely some business houses she had not yet been in. And—and besides—

Her eyes were brighter, and a flush came and descended to her lips in a soft, evanescent smile that was more like the smile of the old days before the wistfulness came.

She had been standing at the post-office door, and he had looked precisely as he had that day when he parted from them in the Arizona canyon, he a penniless prospector and her father an extensive mine owner. And he had not forgotten. Even before she saw him he had sprung from a carriage, without regard to his horses, and was coming up the postoffice steps with outstretched hands.

"Good heavens! You here, Muriel—Miss Ashburton," he had cried, with a gladness in his voice which he did not attempt to conceal and which brought an answering color to her face and light to her eyes. There had been nothing between them except a look and hand pressure, but she had often thought of him in these later dreary years and was glad to know he had remembered her. "I looked for you everywhere—everywhere," he had continued, "but without a clew. I was afraid you had gone from my life. But pardon me; we cannot talk here, and I have a great deal to say. May I call on you at once—this evening? Is your father here?"

"My father is dead," she had managed to say. Her brain had been in a whirl, her heart in a tumult. What did it all mean? What was this impetuous madman saying, implying? By a strong effort she had controlled herself.

"Yes, you may call," she had answered in a low voice. "I—I will be glad to see you." And she had given him the number of the house in which she rented one small room.

"Thank you. I will be there early. I would ask to go back with you now, but I have an appointment which is already overdue. Isn't it providential, though, this meeting? I have been in Washington only three days, and to turn up against you like this!"

"Have you employment here?" she had asked for want of something better to say.

"Yes, temporarily; a job in the senate chamber. You remember I was a jack of all trades, from a farm boy to an impecunious prospector, with occasional dabs at fresco painting and journalism to help me through college. But I will not detain you here in the wind any longer."

She had watched him spring into the carriage and drive away, an odd light in her eyes and a warm color in her cheeks. As she went down the sidewalk she laughed softly. Eight years before she would not have been like this. Evidently he was without any regular employment, just doing some temporary work in the senate chamber—fresco painting probably, for he had spoken of being familiar with that. At first, from his being in the carriage holding the horses, she had thought he might be a coachman, waiting for his employer's return. But, after all, what did it matter? Coachman or painter or impecunious prospector, he was warm hearted and honest and ambitious. She could read that in his eyes and in the strong, full grasp of his hands. And he had remembered her and—and cared for her. It was beautiful to know that in the hurrying, indifferent world there was one who still thought of her and cared for her a little. The manner or lack of employment was such a small matter compared with that. Knowledge of life soon leveled such petty distinctions.

Almost unconsciously her steps had turned toward the capitol. The only alternative seemed a continuation of her search for employment, and, somehow, she shrank from that just now, even though she had been restricting herself to a single meal a day for a week. She would celebrate the finding of a friend. It was opening day at the senate chamber and would be unusually interesting, and perhaps she might see this friend himself or some of the work he had been doing.

There was a sudden stir in the line ahead of her, and she felt herself being pushed forward. The door was open at last, and foot by foot, yard by yard, she was being impelled toward it. But when she entered every seat was taken, and she could only crowd herself into the narrow space behind the last row. She could see the chaplain and a few of the senators on the far side of the chamber and upon the few desks in sight a gorgeous display of flowers.

Presently she heard the opening prayer and bowed her head. Then there was a confusion of voices, with quick, crisp sentences from one desk and another, followed by a short recess in which there was a great shaking of hands and introductions among the senators. At the end of fifteen or twenty minutes some of those in the visitors' gallery began to rise and leave. They had witnessed the opening and

An Animal Cemetery.

In spite of much agitation upon the subject at various times, lovers of animals have never succeeded in establishing in this country a cemetery as elaborate as these in several European capitals.

The largest and most beautiful animal cemetery is La Necropole Zoologique, in Paris, or, rather, in the suburb of Asnieres. Here a large plot of ground is laid out for the interment of dogs and other animals, and here are erected monuments in every way as handsome as those over the graves of human beings in other cities of the dead.

Some famous dogs have sculptures to mark their memories, and dog kennels in marble are favorite vaults. For $2.50 a grave is leased for three years, and this fee includes the services of a dog undertaker, uniformed and mounted on a tricycle. For $100 a grave may be leased in perpetuity, and between these extremes may be found prices to suit all purposes. The cemetery occupies an entire island in the Seine, and, apart from the rental of graves, the company owning the property makes a handsome profit out of the sale of admission tickets to visitors.

The Race He Won.

In the old whaling days a New Bedford captain fell in with a lot of his "townies" in the Pacific, says the Chicago Record-Herald, and after a landing for water on the coast of South America, began a boat race off shore toward the ships. The old skipper kept muttering to his crew to take it easy. The others jeered him as he fell behind, but he took it cheerfully.

"The race I'm after is the race home," he said. He pointed to a little bight in the rocks into which the crew could just see.

"Ever see that rock in there before?" he asked. "No, I guess not. That's a cow whale and her calf up there on the shore. It's her nursery."

When the others were far enough away to give him a clear field he made for the shore. He got the cow and the calf. The others said very little about the race he did not win, for he was the first man back to New Bedford.

Ups and Downs of Santa Cruz.

Probably no other of the West Indian islands has had such a checkered career as Santa Cruz. In turn it has belonged to Spain, which abandoned it; to England and Holland jointly; to England alone; to Spain again, which fell upon the colonists and destroyed or deported them all; to France, which took it from Spain; to the Knights of Malta, who received it as a gift from France; to a private company of adventurers. Then it was resumed possession of by France, but abandoned, so that in 1720 it was uninhabited. Then it became a no man's land until 1727, when France took it again, and presently sold it to a Danish company, which sold it in turn to the king of Denmark. In 1801 England took it once more, gave it back to Denmark, repented and took it away again in a few months, held it for eight years, and then returned it to Denmark, which holds it still.

Plucky Oglethorpe.

Of General Oglethorpe, the founder of the state of Georgia, Boswell, Dr. Johnson's biographer, relates this story: "When a very young man, only fifteen, serving under Prince Eugene of Savoy, he was sitting at table in company with a prince of the house of Wurttemberg, who took up a glass of wine and by a fillip made some of it fly into Oglethorpe's face. The young soldier was in a dilemma. He durst not challenge so distinguished a personage, yet he must notice the affront. Therefore, keeping his eye fixed on his highness and smiling at the time, as if he took what had been done in jest, Oglethorpe exclaimed, 'That's a good joke, but we do it much better in England.' Whereupon he flung a whole glassful of wine in the prince's face. The affair ended in good humor."

When life's autumn comes, women, worn out by the burdens of motherhood, yet shrink from that second "change of life" which will banish these burdens forever. They fear a change in form, in feature, in personal attractiveness. Such fears are largely warranted by the effects which this change produces in many women. But no woman need let these fears fret her.

Those who have used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription do not suffer from the change of life either in face, form or feelings as do other women. This fact is due to the intimate connection of the general health with the health of the organs peculiarly feminine. By preserving the health of these organs, and relieving the system from the debilitating drains, ulcers and inflammations which sap its health, "Favorite Prescription" paves the way for this natural change to come in Nature's way, without the loss of capacity to please others or personal inability to enjoy life.

"Your 'Favorite Prescription' brought me safely through that difficult period, called 'change of life,'" writes Mrs. Mary Ensminger, of 344 E. Ankeny St., Portland, Oregon. "This change made a very unpleasant disturbance through my entire system. I had hot and cold flashes, sick headaches, became excited, flustrated, nervous and irritable. My appetite was fitful and for days I was unable to eat a fair meal. My aunt recommended me to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it made a great change for the better. Within two weeks the unpleasant feelings had disappeared. I have a husband and eight children so have the care of a large family but was able to attend to my household duties without any difficulty and passed the period without any more trouble. I can recommend your 'Favorite Prescription' as a grand medicine for women."

You may be willing that somebody else shall say that their baby is "just as good" as yours, but you don't want that baby substituted for yours. Let dealers say what they like about other medicines being "just as good" but don't let them substitute anything for "Favorite Prescription." It is absolutely unequaled.

CARTON'S FIRST FARE

[Copyright, 1905, by K. A. Whitehead.]

For the third time a coachman called to Carton to move along that others might drive up to the curb, and with a muttered expression of disgust at the length of time it took Fred Howell to select a cigar Hugh Carton ran his automobile across the street and fell in line behind two other cars drawn up beside the square. He did not notice that the others belonged to a sight seeing company until a musical voice inquired what his terms were.

Carton looked down into the face of an exceedingly pretty girl and flashed a glance at the cars ahead. In an instant he comprehended the situation. "Dollar an hour," he said gruffly, touching his leather cap with what he congratulated himself was a good imitation of a chauffeur's salute.

"I shall want you about three hours," she said simply and waited while he sprang down and opened the door in the back of the tonneau. In another moment they were speeding up the street.

From the corner of his eye he caught a glimpse of Fred Howell standing on the hotel steps, and his conscience smote him. He had promised Howell a run, but still it was not his fault that it took his friend so long to pick out cigars while he remained outside to be tempted by the prettiest girl he had ever seen.

He could take Howell out at any time. This was his one chance with the pretty girl. Perhaps after awhile he could tell her that he was not a professional chauffeur. Before they had gone half a mile he had built an air castle in which his first fare was established as chatelaine, and then suddenly the fare wrecked his castle.

"Turn down the next street to 274," she ordered, and obediently Carton drew up. "I want to send my mother out for a drive," she said sweetly. "Give her a good view of the city and keep the rest for yourself."

She ran up the steps, while Carton stared blankly at the five dollar bill she had thrust into his hand. For a moment he was tempted to follow her up the steps, give the money to a servant and drive off. Then came the comforting reflection that perhaps it might be easier to establish himself with the mother than with the daughter, and he waited.

A few moments later he was sorry he had not done so, for down the steps came one of the most eccentric figures he had ever seen. Her clothes bore the stamp of seasons gone before, and a hideous blue veil screened a face sharp and angular.

She fixed herself comfortably in the seat, and with a querulous, "Don't go too fast, young man," they started.

It was torture to Hugh to skim through the residential district with this old figure in the tonneau, and more than one surprised glance followed the automobile and the oddly assorted pair. Even the hope of being able to win the old lady's favor vanished when, after several attempts to engage her in conversation, she leaned forward and in her high pitched voice said: "It's no use to talk to me, young man; I'm deaf, and I wish you would not turn round; you make me nervous, you can't see where you are going."

He heaved a sigh of relief when at last he deposited her before her own door and was free to escape. He did not even catch a glimpse of the girl who had lured him to his fate.

It was late when he entered the Howells' drawing room that evening. The butler was just announcing dinner, and there was barely time to make hurried greeting to his hostess and offer his arm to his companion.

Before each plate on the long table stood a characteristic favor, and the laughter was long and loud when he picked up the tiny silver and gilt cigarette holder fashioned in the form of an automobile that stood at his plate. The laughter became a shriek when, on lifting the lid, he discovered a five dollar bill in stage money.

As bravely as he could he faced the storm of laughter and jeering remarks which followed, but not until he caught sight of Howell at the other end of the table, fairly convulsed with mirth, did he discover the secret of his undoing, for beside the joker, red and unsmiling, was his fare of the morning.

When they had all returned to the drawing room balm was poured upon his wounded feelings, for the girl came up to him.

"I want to apologize to you, Mr. Carton," she said bravely, "for my innocent complicity in the joke my cousin has played upon you.

"I am Mabel Norton, Fred's cousin, and it was he who pointed you out to me and recommended you as the most careful of the public drivers. I assure you that I had no idea that he was playing a joke upon me."

"It is all right," said Carton. "I was playing a joke upon you, you see? I had no business to do it, but—well," he went on lamely, "I thought that maybe—after awhile—I might be able to tell you that you were my guest and not my fare. Anyway—perhaps—well, I hope your mother enjoyed the ride."

After that things progressed famously. Following the first trip, Carton's automobile was at the door of 274 every pleasant afternoon. It was in the automobile, indeed, that she promised to become Mrs. Carton, and they have decided upon an automobile trip for the honeymoon. Fred Howell has already ordered a new twenty-four horsepower machine as a wedding present, but Mabel declares that she prefers the one in which her lover earned his first fare. Carton agrees with her, but he spells it f-a-i-r. JAMES ANDERSON.

Humanity

When one pauses in this race with time and stops to consider what is worth while in life and what he can do to better perfect himself as a part of God's scheme and make the world nearer right than it is, he must realize that the spirit of humanity—the creed of the brotherhood of man—is the real stepping stone to higher things. Without the law of humanity there could be no civilization. By respecting the rights and feelings of others and through the consideration shown others by ourselves, we are enabled to maintain peace and order and decency.

Most of the sorrow in this world and all of the crime is due to a lack of humanity, and where the deficiency exists selfishness is present. The presence of selfishness and the lack of humanity and the results of such defect are to be seen in cases like that of the paramour Bowen, who so recently dishonored a Nevada husband named Stephenson, then killed him when the latter sought to avenge the outrage. "Man's inhumanity to man," was responsible for the wrecking of lives and this tragedy. Woman's weakness was responsible also, but there is no excuse for this, for every reasoning being of this age understands the moral code of humanity. Women may be weak, but they are as amenable for the observance of humanity's principles as are men.

Without the observance of these grand principles "the shrill cry of nature" would reecho throughout the world with unbated fury. Men have learned to combine, however, for the good of each other, and so we have states, families and cities, in which peace is generally predominant. A well-known writer has said, "Humanity is one of the best fruits of refinement. It is only with increasing civilization that the legislation studies to economize human suffering, even for the guilty, to devise penalties not so much by way of punishment for the past, as of reformation for the future." Humanity has prompted us to make provision for the poor and unfortunate, and it is far-reaching in the good it does, inasmuch as it tends to make a higher grade of civilization possible by isolating the unfit and the degenerate. Without humanity's interest we would have more beggars and criminals and sorrow.

Humanity in the true sense, fully realized and widely practiced, is one of the most beautiful ideals ever conceived. It is within the power of every normal individual to bring the ideal nearer to reality. Even though the broad, beautiful principles may not dawn upon all the world in this life, "the ingratitude of the world can never deprive us of the conscious happiness of having acted with humanity ourselves."

A recent dispatch from Marysville states that "the authorities of Yuba county are wondering why they cannot get a feeble-minded child admitted to the Glen Ellen Home for Feeble-Minded Children." The Yuba authorities would not wonder if they knew the actual crowding at the Home because of lack of accommodations, which should be provided by State appropriation. The building of a few cottages, now in the course of construction, will obviate matters to some extent, but there is a large waiting list and all cannot possibly be accommodated. Dr. Dawson, the present superintendent, discharges and finds homes for all patients who are cured, but few vacancies occur in this way.

Dr. Dawson reports good health and dicipline among the patients, despite the overcrowding. He claims to recognize none of the inmates as incorrigibles and seeks to employ tactful attendants, who can handle the patients with kindness.

The Plaint of Belvedere

Oh! down in Belvedere
There's troubles very queer.
No theatre boats run longer to the place;
The railroad company
Did lately agree
That Belvedere must lead
A slower pace.
To this her folks say nay,
We cannot swim the bay,
But travel late we will or there'll be fun;
The outside world will say,
We must be very jay;
We'll surely be the object of some pun;
They'll say we go to roost
With the chickens, or are used
To hours that will put us to much shame;
We'll even have to scratch
"Mrs. Wiggs' own Cabbage Patch"
Now isn't that a pleasing sort of game?
No latch keys will be needed
That surely is conceded,
The life of trade is threatened by the move,
And there is yet a rumor,
That without Belvedere consumer,
The night receipts will dwindle at the "Louv."
Now it is just a pity
That we cannot see the city
By night and come home to this shore?
So if Agler don't concede it,
We will surely leave it
And never, never, come here any more.

The Portland waiter who imagines himself to be a preacher, probably got mixed with the idea of passing the plate.

Red tape or something similar was responsible for a flagrant case of inhumanity this week, when the body of the man who suicided in the cemetery here was left lying exposed and uncared for for more than twenty-four hours after it was found and for more than eighteen hours after the coroner arrived on the scene. There should be some provision made for matters of this kind, and some one vested with authority to act temporarily if the county's undertaker must get such cases.

SUPERIOR COURT PROCEEDINGS

Judge Seawell called the calendars in both departments of the Superior Court on Monday and a resume of the proceedings is as follows:

An order to sell real property of the estate of Nathan L. Blockman was granted.

Chas. B. Shaw and Minerva Shaw were named executors of the will of Isaac E. Shaw without bonds.

Giacomina Foresti was named administratrix on the estate of Rafael Foresti in a $7,400 bond.

The second annual account of the estate of John Hamill and Charles Gill was settled and allowed.

A sale of personal property was granted in the estate of Robert Lee Gibbens.

Partial distribution was ordered of the estate of Thomas Skelton Glaister.

The following probate matters were continued: Estates of Nelson B. Hervey to August 28, John Gallagher to September 5.

The suit of Mary E. Fink vs. H. W. Hewelcke to August 21.

In Department II the motion to tax costs in the suit of W. H. Lee vs. Santa Rosa Labor Council et al., went over to September 5.

In the suit of Wickersham vs. Sherman a complaint of intervention was filed.

Had a Narrow Escape

One evening this week Dr. Thomson and his grandmother were driving along the county road near Caliente when a team ran into their rig, taking the wheels off the doctor's buggy and letting him and his grandmother down in a ditch at the side of the road. Fortunately their horse was gentle and they suffered no injuries, but the buggy was a wreck.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC

Had a Runaway

James Walls, the popular young roadmaster, of Petaluma, who is well known here, had an exciting runaway this week and narrowly escaped serious injury. He was hauling hay at the Walls' ranch when his team became frightened and ran away, upsetting the load. Mr. Walls was on top of the hay when the wagon went over, but fortunately came out of the mixup allright. The runaway horses tried to drag the hay rack through a corral gate several sizes too narrow for it and the rack was badly splintered.

BRILLIANT RECEPTION IN NEW HOME

Captain and Mrs. Boyes Entertain Friday Evening and Christen their House "El Mirador"

Captain and Mrs. H. E. Boyes entertained fifty-four of their friends last Friday evening at a reception in their new home west of town. The beautful bungalow is an ideal place for entertaining and the Captain and his estimable wife proved themselves, as always, delightful ho-t and hostess.

Mrs. Boyes received, assisted by a bevy of pretty girls. By nine o'clock the guests had all assembled and dancing was inaugurated. The spacious rooms were artistically decorated with ferns and flowers and the broad verandas without made an ideal promenade between dances.

At eleven o'clock the doors leading to the dining-room were thrown open and the guests were invited to partake of delicious refreshments. Here the company listened to a speech by Prof. Charles Gompertz of Berkeley, who appropriately christened the Boyes' home "El Mirador," (the lookout.) The name was received with applause and a toast was drunk to the success and prosperity of the new home and its owners. Dancing was then continued and it was midnight when the goodly company bade Captain and Mrs. Boyes adieu.

The invited guests were: C. Gompertz and daughter, Berkeley, Miss Pardy, Misses Blanche and Laura Russell and Willie Russell of San Francisco, Mr. and Mrs. Allen and friends, Mr. and Mrs. Miller, Mr. Ernest Clewe and Miss Clewe, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bates, Mr. and Miss Granice, Mr. and Mrs. F. Duhring, Mr. W. Clewe, Mr. F. Clewe, Mr. Roy Pauli, Mr. Robert Prussia, Mrs. Watson and the Misses Watson, Mrs Gibson and the Misses Gibson, Mr. James Morris, Mr. Thos. Morris, Mr. James Morris Jr., Mr. Ed Morris and Miss Helen Morris, Dr. Hawlre, U. S. N., Mrs. Hawlre, Miss Hawlre, Hon. Hawlre, Miss Fiske, Mr and Mrs. Francis, Mr. and Mrs. Kelly and Mrs. Ewing of San Francisco, Mr. Elliott Chapman Dr. Dawson, Mrs. Dawson, Miss Dawson and Miss Shaw of Eldridge, Dr. and Mrs. Thomson, Mrs. Emparan, Mrs. Williamson and Master Darcy Williamson, who favored the guests with a highland fling and sword dance in costume, and later with a sailor's hornpipe, in costume. Mr. and Miss Kelly sang some solos during the evening, which were much appreciated by the guests.

Barnum & Bailey's Circus

After all the circus loving people of this vicinity are to have an opportunity to see the Barnum & Bailey Greatest Show on Earth this year. The big show will exhibit in Santa Rosa on September 1st, and the date has been definitely set for Napa for September 2nd. This will be good news to all who really enjoy a high-class arenic performance. The Barnum & Bailey circus has always been in a class by itself, and this is undoubtedly true to a greater extent than ever this season. Those who have seen the show in other cities, and especially in New York, declare that it is beyond comparison the greatest combined circus, menagerie and hippodrome that the world has ever seen. This in itself is interesting, but what is of greater interest is the fact that the performance given "on the road" is exactly the same as that presented at the famous Madison Square Garden, New York. The marvelous Auto-Bolide, in which a daring young woman "loops the gap" in an automobile, will be given for the benefit of the people in the locality, notwithstanding the enormous cost of carrying this greatest of all sensational features. The Barnum & Bailey management announces that there will be no street parade, but, prior to the performance in the big tents, there will be an exhibition on the show grounds of a most unusual and sensational kind. This will be free to the public.

Joe Herbert, the rising young clerk at El Verano Villa, contemplates a trip to Tonopah in the near future.

A large number of people from here took in the Catholic Fair at Glen Ellen last Saturday night. All reported having a good time.

Rumor has it that another large hotel will go up in this place. This hotel, it is said, will be put up in the near future and will be run on the American plan.

There was great excitement in town last Sunday, when one of the young Frisco sports, who hired a rig from Harris' livery stable, was passing it around. Six of these rowdies were seen in the rig at one time, driving the horse at full speed. A number of our citizens got the horse away from them and Deputy Sheriff Joe Ryan was sent for. No arrests were made, but the next time these young San Francisco "scrappers," as they called themselves, come to this burg they will know that this gag don't work in our town. They paid the damages.

The Pinkey's Outing Club has returned to San Francisco from the Bellevue Hotel, where the members had the jolliest time of the season. They are a popular bunch of fellows and make things lively in the burg when here. Their leave-taking was the occasion of much regret and they expressed reciprocal sorrow at having to break away from mine host Serres, the genial proprietor of the Bellevue. The following are the officers of the Pinkey's Club: Hon. President, B. Dalagnes; President, Frank McKenna; 1st Vice-President, J. Kelly; 2nd Vice-President, F. Houston; Recording Secretary, J. Feehan; Chas. Renard; Sergeants-at-Arms, J. Kinsley and P. Cassagnes; Guard, P. Paulus.

MAN SUICIDES IN CEMETERY

Body Found Tuesday and Bullet Wound in Head Tells of Self-Destruction

The body of a man with a gaping pistol wound in his head was found lying in the Catholic cemetery Tuesday by the Bazaglia boys. The case was a plain one of suicide. The unfortunate man had evidently prepared himself for the ordeal, for he had taken off his shoes and coat, both of which were lying at his side and he had heaped up a piliow of grass upon which to lay his head. In the silent seclusion of the little graveyard he sought everlasting oblivion from the troubles which prompted the deed.

The authorities were notified of the ghastly discovery and the man was pronounced to have been dead at least three days. No one seemed to know him or to recognize the cheap thirty-two calibre revolver which lay near his body. The unfortunate was about forty-five years of age and had a sandy moustache. He was attired in a brown suit of clothes and wore a soft hat.

HOUSE DESTROYED BY FLAMES

W. N. Thompson's Home on Broadway Consumed by Fire in Early Morning

Friday morning at about two o'clock W. N. Thompson, who resides on Broadway near the Hunter place, awakened to find his house in flames. He ran out into the street and his cries of fire aroused the neighbors, who came to his assistance and battled with the flames. To all appearances the fire was gotten under control, but it suddenly broke out on the roof and had gained such headway between the walls that in a short time the house and all its contents were consumed. Mr. Thompson is said to have $500 insurance on the property. The cause of the fire is supposed to have been coals which got into the wood box and smoldered there.

Mr. Ed Gillan, of the "Home," is a victim of sore eyes. By the appearance of things it looks as if we are going to have another epidemic of "pink eye."

Wm. Patton and family, former residents on the "old adobe ranch," passed through the valley Saturday after an absence of eighteen years. The Pattons now reside in Napa.

Our people were wondering what the county coroner was doing down this way Wednesday. He went to Sonoma to get the remains of the suicide, who ended his days in the Catholic cemetery at that place.

Glen Ellen can boast of having a "trust." Mrs. Eliza McLane has cornered all the waxed strings that were to be had in Santa Rosa, Sonoma and Glen Ellen, through her agents, Chas. Poppe, Mrs. Van de Water and Howard Gaige.

Mr. Fred Duhring of Sonoma was in town Wednesday getting "pointers" on our fine new brick and stone buildings, which he will use to an advantage in the construction of his warehouse at Sonoma, which he is enlarging.

Mr. Nick Gaillard, who has been suffering with sore eyes for several months, was obliged to go to San Francisco for treatment and found no relief, is now entirely cured, through the skillful treatment of Dr. Crepin. Nick can now wink at the ladies as well as ever with his snapping black eyes.

Mr. Edward B. Payne has kindly consented to deliver a lecture on Friday, August 25th, at 8:30 p. m., at Mayflower Hall, Glen Ellen, under the auspices of the Womans' Improvement Club. Mr. Payne is well and favorably known in the lecture field and handles his subject in masterly style. We hope that all who can do so will avail themselves of this opportunity to hear him. SUCCESSFUL FAIR AT GLEN ELLEN

Net Proceeds Amount to $1,100 and St. Mary's Church is now Almost Out of Debt

The Catholic Fair held at Glen Ellen last week for the benefit of St. Mary's church was well attended and patronized. The good ladies worked hard for the success of the affair and their efforts have resulted in almost clearing the debt of the new church.

The net proceeds of the Fair were $1100, leaving a debt of only $200. Much credit is due to Rev. Father Leahy for his untiring efforts in clearing the debts of his parish. St. Francis' Church is out of debt through his zealous work and good financial management and the new church at Glen Ellen was built and made possible through his earnest efforts and the cooperation of a devoted congregation.

A little forethought may save you no end of trouble. Any one who makes it a rule to keep Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy at hand knows this to be a fact. For sale by Shoults & Co.

MAKING STIR FOR THE ELECTRIC ROAD

Promoters Maintain Secrecy, but Building of Road is About to Begin

Many important moves have been going on in this valley this week in connection with the electric road proposition and everything points to the fact that the building of the road is about to begin.

Messrs. Schocken and Weber, with Messrs. Duhring and Ryland representing the Sonoma Valley Electric Company, which will supply juice for the new road, went over the proposed route Wednesday and surveyors will shortly begin work. Considerable secrecy is being maintained by the promoters as to their plans, but the Index-Tribune will fully explain all the moves being made on the checker board in the next issue. Oscar T. Weber preferred not to speak for publication this week, but from other sources it was learned that articles of incorporation for the new electric road will be filed Monday in Santa Rosa and ground will be broken for the road within a week.

The commencing of the new line will herald a new era of prosperity for Sonoma Valley and after the transpiration of events this week, the good faith of Messrs. Weber and Schocken can no longer be doubted.

Union Endeavor Society

As the result of the Christian Endeavor rally at Sonoma last Friday night a Union Society composed of the Congregational and Methodist young people was organized Sunday evening in the Congregational Church.

There were about thirty persons present at the meeting, including half a dozen from Santa Rosa. After a short explanation of the aims and objects of the society fifteen members were enrolled and the organization perfected by the election of officers as follows:

President, Miss Eva Fraser; vice president, Miss Alice Humphreys; recording and corresponding secretary, Miss Emma Campbell; treasurer, Mrs. R. L. Rowe.

Jack London' Fine Barn

Hoyt Bros. of Santa Rosa have been awarded the contract for the fine new barn that Jack London, the author, is about to erect at his summer home near Glen Ellen. This barn is something new in barn construction. It will be almost fire proof. The roof is to be of red tile, and the frame will be of heavy rough beams, stained. The whole structure inside and out will be plastered with the beams showing.

The floor to the upper loft will be in the celebrated Roebling wire construction, with cement floor on top. Taken as a whole the building will be something entirely novel and unique and will be a very substantial structure. Mr. London will erect a fine dwelling on his place next year.—Press Democrat.

BEWITCHED

[Original.]

One bright summer morning more than two hundred years ago, a ship from England anchored off shore at a settlement in Massachusetts. To the people of the place the arrival of anything or any person was a subject of excitement and they all went down to see what the vessel brought them. To their great joy besides stores there had come a number of people to cast their fortunes with them. The watchers on shore stood gaping under their broad brimmed puritan hats while a ship's boat unloaded the emigrants, among them a young girl, who from the moment her foot touched the land made herself as much at home as if she had been born there. She had not been landed five minutes before her shoes and stockings were off and she was wading in the shallows, splashing the water, laughing and otherwise disporting herself. The grim faces on the shore formed a singular contrast with the capering maiden.

"Tell me," said Hezekiah Stonehedge to the captain of the ship, "who is that madcap who is disgracing herself by showing her bare ankles to our young men?"

"She calls herself Abigail Rogers."

"To which of the families does she belong?"

"To none of them."

"God help us!" exclaimed Hezekiah Stonehedge, throwing up his hands in pious horror.

At that moment Abigail Rogers' back was turned to the shore while she waded out toward a place where a small bit of sand rose above the surface. As the water deepened she raised her skirts accordingly. Then it grew more shallow, and she stood on the little island, clapping her hands in great glee. She splashed her white feet in the water, hunted for shells—indeed found more to do in the narrow compass than many would have found on all the coast. Though all eyes from the shore were fixed upon her, she paid no attention to her observers and when she had tired started landward. But while she had been sporting the tide had risen, and after she had advanced till the water became so deep that she could raise her skirts no further she stopped and cast her eyes to the shore as if looking for help. Sweeping the line of scowling faces, she at last fixed on Hugh Saltonstall, a stalwart young fellow, who had been looking on with the others. The moment he received the maiden's glance he strode into the water and carried her in his arms to the shore.

That was quite sufficient to stamp her as a witch. Hezekiah Stonehedge took the captain of the ship into his house and wrote down all the information he had to impart concerning Abigail Rogers. No one knew how she had got aboard his vessel, for she had not appeared till the morning after the ship had sailed. She had bewitched the sailors, who when she fixed her eyes on them could not be made to perform their duties properly. This Stonehedge considered all the proof needed.

When the young man set the girl down on the sand every person who saw what they considered his enthralment turned and went up toward the settlement, fleeing lest they should themselves come under the spell. Abigail wondered what had sent them away in such a hurry. Young Hugh endeavored to make her aware of the terrible danger overhanging her. "Why," he asked, "did you put yourself in such jeopardy?"

"The good God made me happy," she replied, "and I must be happy."

"How did you come to sail for these shores?"

"My uncle sent me abroad in charge of a sailor, who hid me."

"Why did he do that?"

"I don't know."

"Come with me to the house in which I live. There are women there, and I'll see if I can persuade them to protect you."

The young man believed that before the day was spent she would be jailed and as soon as tried burned at the stake. He walked beside her to a cabin. Hezekiah Stonehedge and others stood afar watching him. On reaching the cabin every woman but one fled. She, good motherly soul, nothing affrighted as the others, took the girl to her heart and gave her refreshment. Just before dark Hezekiah Stonehedge came, followed by two others to assist him, to demand the body of the witch. Hugh Saltonstall met him at the door.

"The witch is not here," said the young man. "An hour ago we put her by the chimney to rest. Suddenly there was a gust of wind, and she vanished. Rushing out of the cabin, I glanced at the sky. She was not there; but, looking below, I saw her going down to the water with a sieve she had taken from the chimney piece. When she reached the verge she launched the sieve, got into it and sailed away."

"She has bewitched you," said Stonehedge, not knowing whether the young man lied or told the truth, and he searched the place. He found nothing, for Abigail was hidden in the clock.

That night Saltonstall took the girl in his boat to the ship and prevailed on the captain to take her back to England. Her protector went with her and upon investigation uncovered a plot to get rid of her that another might secure a fortune she had inherited. Her uncle had bribed a sailor to take her aboard the ship, and after her departure she had been personated at home by a girl of her own age.

Saltonstall succeeded in restoring the property to the girl he had befriended and punishing the man who had sought to defraud her. The young man had been, in modern parlance, bewitched.

Excursions to the East at Half Fare

During the coming summer months rare opportunity will be given to visit eastern cities at a minimum expense.

Tickets will be sold by the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad at practically half the regular rates, or one fare for the round trip from California points to Denver, Omaha, Kansas City, Memphis, St. Louis, Chicago and many other points. For a slight extra cost trip may be made via Portland with a free stop-over at the Lewis and Clarke Fair.

The world-famed scenery of the Denver & Rio Grande needs no introduction to most travelers. The Canon of the Grande, the Eagle River Canon, the Canon of the Arkansas, the Black Canon of the Gunnison, the Royal Gorge, and Pike's Peak, form but a part of that glorious panorama, all of which is viewed by daylight from the new observation cars with open tops—as one passenger said, "It is just like touring in an auto."

Through sleeping cars to all principal points east.

Mr. W. J. Shotwell, General Agt., D. & R. G. R. R. Co., 625 Market street, San Francisco, will, on application, quote lowest fares, arrange sleeping car accomodations and all details of your trip, and send you free some beautifully illustrated travel books. Write today.

Nothing doing in electric railway circles in this valley,

Herbine

Renders the bile more fluid and thus helps the blood to flow; it affords prompt relief from biliousness, indigestion, sick and nervous headaches, and over indulgence in food and drink. G. L. Caldwell, Agt. M. K. and T. R. R., Checotah, Ind. Ter., writes, April 18, 1903: "I was sick for over two years with enlargement of the liver and spleen. The doctors did me no good, and I had given up all hope of being cured, when my druggist advised me to use Herbine. It has made me sound and well." 50c. Sold by L. S. Simmons.

Rust has badly damaged the hay and grain crop in this part of the state.

Rheumatism

When pains or irritation exist on any part of the body, the application of Ballard's Snow Liniment gives prompt relief. C. W. Sullivan, Prop. Sullivan House, El Reno, O. T., writes, June 6, 1902: "I take pleasure in recommending Ballard's Snow Liniment to all who are afflicted with rheumatism. It is the only remedy I have found that gives immediate relief." 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold by L. S. Simmons.

Walter Ferrell, at one time a prominent politician in this state, has committed suicide.

Nothing on the Market Equal to Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarhoea Remedy.

This fact is well known to druggists everywhere, and nine out of ten will give their customers this preparation when the best is asked for. Mr. Oge Wittigr, a prominent druggist of Joplin, Mo., in a circular to his customers, says: "There is nothing on the market in the way of patent medicine which equals Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints. We sell and recommend this preparation." For sale by Shoults & Co.

The Congregationalists of Sebastopol will build a parsonage.

Stop That Cough

When a cough, a tickling or an irritation in the throat makes you feel uncomfortable take Ballard's Horehound Syrup. Don't wait until the disease has gone beyond control. Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Anderson, 354 West 5th St., Salt Lake City, Utah, write, "We think Ballard's Horehound Syrup the best medicine for coughs and colds. We have used it for several years; it always gives immediate relief, is very pleasant and gives perfect satisfaction." 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold by L. S. Simmons.

California convicts are hereafter to be identified by the tips of their fingers.

A Warning to Mothers

Too much care cannot be used with small children during the hot weather of the summer months to guard against bowel troubles. As a rule it is only necessary to give the child a dose of castor oil to correct any disorder of the bowels. Do not use any substitute, but give the old-fashioned castor oil, and see that it is fresh, as rancid oil nauseates and has a tendency to gripe. If this does not check the bowels give Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and then a dose of castor oil, and the disease may be checked in its incipiency and all danger avoided. The castor oil and this remedy should be procured at once and kept ready for instant use as soon as the first indication of any bowel trouble appears. This is the most successful treatment known and may be relied upon with implicit confidence even in cases of cholera infantum. For sale by Shoults & Co.

Peace negotiations are still pending between Japan and Russia.

Cures Sciatica.

Rev. W. L. Riley, L. L. D., Cuba, New York, writes: "After fifteen days of excruciating pain from sciatic rheumatism, under various treatments, I was induced to try Ballard's Snow Liniment, the first application giving my first relief and the second entire relief. I can give it unqualified recommendation. 25c, 50c, $1.00. Sold by L. S. Simmons.

STONE, MARBLE

CEMENT WORK

were now going home to lunch. Soon she was able to step down to a vacant seat in one of the front rows.

She had now a good view of the chamber, and her gaze swept curiously from desk to desk. Many of the senators she recognized from pictures she had seen in current periodicals. Suddenly she started and half arose. She had not thought to see him down there, if she met him at all it would be in one of the corridors, and probably at work. But there he was, at one of the desks, examining some papers. What did it mean? He had no right to be in there now, while the senate was in session.

An hour later she descended to the next floor, still dazed and wondering. As she left the elevator she met him face to face.

"What! you here, Muriel—Miss Ashburton?" he cried. "This is splendid! Now we can have that talk without waiting until evening. I know a cozy little table down in a corner of the cafe where we can be all by ourselves. We will talk while we eat our lunch. Come."

She was looking at him with wide eyes.

"Why were you in there, at a desk?" she demanded.

"In the senate chamber? Oh, that's my job. You see, when I left you that day I went straight to one of the new towns and opened a law office. My father was a lawyer, and I had studied with him. Somehow the people seemed to like my ways, and last year they hatched up a plot to send me here. But come, we can talk better at the table. I have a proposition for your consideration, and," his voice suddenly becoming grave, "I hope you will be able to see your way to accede to it. Come."

And she, after a moment's bewildered, ecstatic hesitation, went.

Cholera and Diarrhoea—A Remedy that is Prompt and Efficient.

The prompt results produced by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy together with its pleasant taste have won for it a place in many households. Mr. W. T. Taylor, a merchant of Winslow, Ala., writes: "I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy myself and also with men on my place, for diarrhoea and colic and it always gives relief promptly and pleasantly.
